DISCUSSIONS AT COUNCIL SESSION

Town Council Hears Complaints, Adjusts Ordinances and Transacts Much Business at its Regular Monthly Session.

Untangling the knots of the new ordinances, regarding faking and the prohibition of merchants displaying goods in front of their stores, occupied a large portion of the regular June meeting of the town council on Tuesday evening.

George W. Buohl, the Carlisle street fresh fruit and vegetable dealer, addressed council at length on the hardship which he would suffer if made to remove his stands from the pavement and gutter. Mr. Buohl pointed out that he dealt in goods that required quick sales and that to make such sales his fruit and vegetables had to be displayed.

"I admit I may be somewhat of a nuisance," he said, "but as much of a nuisance as you find me, just that much of a convenience to the town I am. I've a place of business the town must have, you can't do without it. Selling the quantity of goods I handle, I can give them to you cheaper than you would otherwise have to pay. Of course, you wouldn't starve if I left the town but you would pay more for your goods."

The question of Mr. Buohl's having to pay fakers's licenses of $25 each for every wagon that he operates was also taken up. Mr. Buohl objected especially to the fact that each license was made out to one individual and that, under the provisions of the ordinance, no one else could use it.

"I have taken out one such license in the name of Carson Bumbaugh," said Mr. Buohl. "Suppose he drives on the railroad to-morrow and gets killed. There goes my twenty-five. If I take out a license for myself to peddle, and have to go to Baltimore to buy goods, my wagon must remain idle while I'm away, my fruits will decay and I am out money."

J. L. Williams Esq. also appeared before council to ask that the ordinance regarding the placing of display stands on the streets in front of places of business be not enforced. He represented R. A. Myers, C. A. Blocher, N. L. Minter, P. W. Stallsmith and U. Ambrogio. He stated that these parties were all willing to pay the $25 fakers's license and that, at the time of the anniversary, they would remove their stands if found necessary for the convenience of pedestrians.

Council informed Mr. Williams that it was not their intention to enforce this ordinance until the crowds made the removal of their stands necessary and that, then, they would be given notice. Mr. Buohl was informed that the ordinance regarding fakers's license would be construed liberally in a case such as his and council intimated that, if he took out a $25 license for every wagon he operated, he would meet the intent of the ordinance—the "not transferable" feature of the measure being to guard against crooked work by outsiders.

Meat and bread wagons are not to be taxed as, it is argued, they sell to regular customers and do not cry their wares. Ice cream wagons and all wagons soliciting business will be charged for at the regular $25 rate.

Rev. W. B. Hooper appeared in behalf of a petition presented by James A. Kepner and himself asking for a light on West Confederate avenue. Council was favorable to granting the request but said the avenue was not borough property and that they could not legally do so.

Rev. J. B. Baker, Howard Hartley and C. A. Blocher appeared for St. James church asking a concrete crossing at Stratton street from the Wolf property to the church corner. A long argument followed and no action was taken though it is possible that the new street on the first block of York street will be extended so as to take in this intersection and that may afford some relief.

Market Master Miller's salary was placed at $15 a month during the market season.

It was reported that Dr. Diehl had attended to the condition of the road on Baltimore street caused by digging at his property and action of council directing the borough attorney to take legal steps in the matter was rescinded.

Messrs. Keith, Armor and Butt were appointed a special committee to confer with Mr. Turner regarding an increase in the number of lights during the "big time" and to take up with him other matters regarding the lighting of the town.

A proposition of Calvin Gilbert that, if the borough furnished a carload of stone, for Reynolds street citizens of that section would have it placed and rolled, was not received with favor and no action was taken.

ARRANGE FOR 350 BOY SCOUTS

Young Boys will Act as Messengers in Veterans' Camp. To be Sent here by Head of Boy Scouts in Pennsylvania.

Col. Lewis E. Beitler, secretary of the Anniversary Commission, has conferred with Director of Public Safety G. W. Porter, of Philadelphia, who is at the head of the Pennsylvania Boy Scouts to select 350 of the most intelligent Scouts within a radius of 150 miles of Philadelphia, to come to Gettysburg on the occasion of the anniversary and act as orderlies, scouts and guides for the veterans, and render all assistance they can in making the occasion as free from care to them as possible.

The Boy Scouts will be divided into companies and assigned to the different camps, and will be ready at all times to give information. In fact they will constitute an information bureau for the veterans.

The War Department has given its approval of the scheme, and has notified Col. Beitler that it will furnish tents and rations for the boys and render every assistance possible.

Contracts for ice and ice cream for the celebration have been awarded to the York Ice & Milk company and H. L. Neuman, of York.

The contract for 1,900 gallons of ice cream was awarded to H. L. Neuman, ice cream manufacturer, of York. This is one of the largest single contracts for ice cream ever received by Mr. Neuman.

The York Ice & Milk company has been awarded the contract to furnish nine carloads of ice.

The ice and ice cream will be shipped via the Western Maryland railway so that the cars will be on the siding at Gettysburg at 12 o'clock noon on July 3.

MRS. WILLIAM BOWERS

Sudden Death on Tuesday of Tyrone Township Resident.

Mrs. Eliza Jane Bowers, widow of William Bowers, died at her home in Tyrone township Tuesday evening at eight o'clock aged 68 years, 11 months and 10 days.

Mrs. Bowers had apparently been in the best of health and during the morning visited her daughter on the farm adjoining. She was taken suddenly ill with a stroke at two o'clock in the afternoon and did not regain consciousness before her death, which came as a great shock to the community where she had a wide circle of friends.

She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Jacob Peters, of Tyrone township, and Mrs. Charles C. Bream, of Hamilton township. One brother and a sister survive, William Deardorff, of York, and Miss Emma Deardorff, of Hampton. She also leaves seven grandchildren.

Funeral Friday meeting at 1 p. m. Services conducted by Rev. Eugene Dietterich in the Heidersburg Lutheran church of which she was a faithful member for the past thirty years. Interment in the church cemetery. Friends will accept this as a notice of the funeral.

RAISE $15,000

Citizens of East Berlin are Enthusiastic Over Trolley.

Public spirited East Berlin citizens were out strong Tuesday evening at a meeting held in the interests of the proposed York-East Berlin trolley line, and subscribed stock amounting to nearly $15,000. Another meeting will be held next Tuesday evening when it is expected that the amount of stock subscribed by citizens will be doubled. It is planned to have as much stock as possible subscribed for by citizens of the borough, and then to make a canvass of the farmers and others living along the three proposed trolley lines, and decide on the route, along which the farmers offer the most liberal inducements. Offers of free right of way privileges and accompanying promises for big blocks of stock have been made the local directors without solicitation.

TANEYTOWN MAN SHOOTS HIMSELF

James Neely, well Known in Adams County, Puts Muzzle of Gun in his Mouth and Pulls Trigger. Peculiar Case.

James Neely, a retired farmer, aged 73 years, committed suicide at Taneytown, on Monday afternoon. He was well known in sections of Adams County and had a number of friends in several townships. He was a widower.

Until a short time ago he lived alone. Recently he had boarded with his only child, Mrs. Claudis Long. He was seen about the streets between 9 and 10 o'clock. Some time during the afternoon he was found in a wooded place on his own property, seated on a pile of excelsior, dead. He had placed the muzzle of an old-fashioned revolver in his mouth and shot himself.

Formerly the possessor of considerable property, he is said to have given the most of it to his daughter and several nieces. He still owned, however, a farm and town property, so that he was not dependent, but it is thought that he imagined that he might become so and grew melancholy over the idea.

DR. CHARLES M. STOCK

Well Known Lutheran Minister Dies at his Home Near Hanover

Rev. Dr. Charles M. Stock died at 9:30 this morning at his home at Iron Ridge near Hanover aged 58 years, 2 months and 18 days.

Dr. Stock was taken ill a year ago but had partially recovered. On Monday of this week he was again taken seriously ill and sank steadily until death occurred this morning.

Dr. Stock was widely known in Gettysburg. He was born March 16, 1855 in New Oxford, a son of Rev. and Mrs. Daniel Stock. He graduated from Gettysburg College in 1874. After teaching a year he took up the work in the Gettysburg Seminary, graduating in 1878. For two years he occupied the Lutheran charge at Blairsville and then went to Bedford. Last fall he resigned the pastorate of St. Mark's Lutheran church, Hanover, after a pastorate of 25 years. For over twenty years he was secretary of the Board of Trustees of Gettysburg College.

Nine years ago he was the Grand Commander of the Grand Commandery of Pennsylvania, Knights Templar. At the present time he is filling the position of Grand Chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, Free and Accepted Masons.

Dr. Stock leaves his wife, who before marriage was Miss H. Mary McClean, a daughter of Judge McClean of this place. He also leaves six children, McClean Stock Esq., Richard Stock and Donald Stock, of York; Frederick Stock and Miss Meta Stock, of Hanover; Mrs. John Snively, of Hanover.

The funeral arrangements are not yet announced.

OPERATOR BLAMED

Held Responsible for the Wreck at Big Six Curve.

The jury of inquest investigating the cause of the wreck on the Western Maryland Railway last Wednesday evening, when two freight trains collided at Big Six Curve, killing brakeman Charles E. Guise and more or less seriously injuring 11 others, found that Operator George P. Hagg, at Pearre Station, was responsible for the wreck, in that he failed to issue orders to train No. 342, west-bound, holding it to permit train No. 855, eastbound, to pass. Immediately after the wreck Operator Hagg left for parts unknown.

A number of witnesses, including Superintendent Berry and Chief Train Dispatcher Peters and trainmen on the wrecked trains, were heard. Mr. Berry stated that he had investigated the cause of the wreck and found that Operator Hagg had failed to deliver stop orders to train 342. "When he discovered his mistake," Mr. Berry said, "Hagg notified the dispatchers. We then called out the wreck crew and waited for the tidings we were bound to hear. We endeavored to get the Cohill residence and have some one stop the train, but Mrs. Cohill said the train had gone by."

Chief Train Dispatcher Peters said he personally gave the orders to Hagg, and showed train sheets as evidence. The books show he received the orders and repeated them back correctly. When the operator reported train No. 342 by, he was reminded of the order, and Hagg's reply was that he forgot to stop the train.

PENROSE SCOUTS LOBBY TALK

Says He Never Knew of Improper Influence.

GIVES LIST OF 175 NAMES

Tells Senate Committee Work of Manufacturers' Agents on Tariff Legislation Is Legitimate.

Washington, June 4.—Senator Penrose told the special senate committee hunting for "the numerous and insidious lobby" that in his sixteen years' experience in Washington he never had known of any attempts improperly to influence members of congress.

He gave the names of 175 persons who had called on him since Jan. 1 in regard to the tariff, but declared that none were "lobbyists" in the general acceptance of the term.

"It's well known that certain interests have agents here," said the Pennsylvania senator, "and I suppose they are paid salaries. They evidently get information for their organizations. Their work is perfectly legitimate."

"I have seen Mr. Burgess for the pottery interests here for years and Mr. Brown for the cotton people. Their work is perfectly legitimate, so far as I know. My opinion is that the lobbyist is principally a thing of the past. Congressional committees pay little attention to them now."

Penrose thought that probably Winthrop L. Marvin, of Boston, represented "the wool people" in Washington, and Senator Reed was insistent to learn if Marvin ever had anything to do with fixing the tariff on wool, or Brown with the cotton tariff.

Penrose declared that the men did nothing more than present arguments to senators and representatives, and that neither had anything to do with making the rates of the Payne law.

Reed succeeded in developing, upon cross-examination, that Marvin at one time was secretary of a joint congressional committee to investigate the merchant marine.

Senator Penrose was the liveliest witness of the session. Other senators testified that they knew of no undue influences and told of their personal interests.

The long list of names which Penrose gave the committee was made up of manufacturers, labor leaders, attorneys, importers and others who feared they would be affected by tariff changes.

The steel industry and coal interests of Pennsylvania have had no permanent representative in Washington for many years, said Penrose. Their custom of keeping representatives in Washington had "died out ten or twelve years ago."

He estimated that not more than 40 per cent as many persons had come to Washington on tariff business this year as compared with four years ago, but reiterated that the persons in Washington now were in the city at previous tariff revisions.

Senator McLean was called. He testified that he was a small stockholder in several corporations, but had never sought to influence senators because of his interests.

Senator Dillingham testified that he had no financial interest in any business affected by the tariff. He could not remember the names of persons who had talked with him except a Mr. Ullman, of New York, who urged that no duty be put on green furs.

Senator Fletcher gave among the names of his visitors C. E. Herriman, of Chicago and Tampa, in regard to Havana cigars; G. Harold Powell, representing California citrus fruit interests, and A. Davis, of Colorado and Florida, concerning beet sugar interests.

Senator Fall testified that he was a large owner of cattle, horses, sheep and coal. He gave the names of cattle-men and officials of a wool growers association who had talked with him on the tariff.

Under cross-examination, Fall said a Mr. Burbridge, of Colorado, who, he believed, was interested in the zinc "trust," had talked to him. "His attitude was one of indifference," explained Fall. "He was not a lobbyist, honest or dishonest."

Senator Gronna testified that he was interested in farming and knew of no lobbying. "I do not believe there is any such thing as corrupt action going on at either end of the capitol," he declared.

He said John Crosby and Charles C. Bovey, representing Minneapolis flour milling companies, had presented arguments to him in support of a duty on flour.

DEMAND FOR BEEF EXCEEDS SUPPLY

Warns Country That Meat Crisis Is Imminent.

Washington, June 4.—The demand for beef far exceeds the supply and high prices are the result, says a bulletin issued by the department of agriculture.

The shortage in the supply of meat-producing animals, too, is steadily becoming greater, and the country is warned that it is facing a period of short production of meat.

In the last six years there has been a decline of more than 30 per cent in the number of beef cattle in the United States, according to the department and already during the first three months of this year there has been an approximate decrease of 13 per cent in the number of meat animals killed under government supervision as compared with the same three months of 1912.

Estimates of the department give the number of beef cattle in the United States on Jan. 1, 1907, as 51,565,000, and at the beginning of the present year as 36,030,000. Prices paid for cattle, sheep, lambs and hogs last year were much higher than the preceding year.

"The year 1912," says the department, "was a year of high prices for all classes of food animals." With the diminished production in the home market, the department asserts, there is no longer a surplus for export.

"The time has come," it says, "when we must conserve our meat supply."

RIFLES FOR ORANGEMEN?

Twelve Large Cases of Arms Found in Belfast, Ireland.

Belfast, June 4.—The customs officers became suspicious of twelve large cases which arrived from Manchester, were vaguely addressed and were described as "electrical equipment."

The customs officials opened the cases and found them full of rifles and bayonets. They then called in the police, who are now in charge of the consignment, pending an inquiry.

Technically the arms cannot be seized, as arms may be legitimately consigned to anybody in Ireland for legitimate purposes, but they will be held until the designs of the consignees can be ascertained.

The discovery of the arms and the seizure created an immense stir when it became known. It is said that the cases contained about 2000 rifles of modern foreign pattern. The general belief is that the Orange campaign against home rule is responsible for the arrival of the arms.

Eleven-Year-Old Would-Be Suicide.

WILSON ADDS TO FREE LIST

REVERSES SUB-COMMITTEE

The President Stands Firm For Party Policy Placing Raw Materials and Their Products on Free List.

Washington, June 4.—Reversing its former action in voting to place wheat, flour, oatmeal and fresh meats on the dutiable list, the senate finance sub-committee in charge of the agricultural schedule voted to place live stock, wheat and oats on the free list.

This action, it was authoritatively said, was taken to meet the views of President Wilson, Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, and other administration leaders, who disapproved the decision to tax meats 10 per cent, compensatory to a duty on cattle in the Underwood bill, and to assess a compensatory duty on both flour and oatmeal.

The vote to reconsider was taken in the sub-committee on a motion made by Senator Simmons, ex-officio member of all the sub-committees handling the various tariff schedules, when he returned to the capitol from a conference with the president.

In this enlargement of the free list President Wilson is known to have taken a leading part, as he did in the matter of raw wool and sugar before the ways and means committee. As he still is standing uncompromisingly for the wool and sugar schedules, so, it is declared, he will stand firmly for free cattle, sheep and hogs, and free wheat and oats now that this has been determined upon as the party policy.

Senator Simmons conferred with the president last week about his views on the method of equalizing the Underwood bill with regard to these raw materials and their products.

When the sub-committee's tentative action was announced the senator went immediately to the White House. "I told the president," he said later, "that members of the finance committee in informal conference had agreed that there should not be a tax upon meats and flour. It was true that the sub-committee had taken different action, but I informed the president that the majority of the finance committee felt and said we would vote instead to place cattle and other live stock and wheat and oats on the free list. This President Wilson agreed to and said it would be all right."

After leaving the White House Simmons called on Senator Williams, the chairman of the sub-committee, and told him of the sentiment for free cattle and free wheat. Then the sub-committee was called together and its former action reversed.

"The matter is settled now," said Senator Simmons, "and that is the way the schedule will go to the senate."

DYING FROM LAUGHTER

Old Theater Joke Throws Man Into Nervous Convulsions.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 4.—Julius Jeswein is dying from nervous convulsions due to a laughing fit he suffered while in a vaudeville theater.

He laughed for sixteen hours, and when the laughter had been stopped by the hospital physicians he was in such a nervous condition that they said he probably could not live.

Here is the joke, not a new one, which worked the havoc:
"If you were my husband I'd give you poison," said one of the performers, the feminine member of the team, and the next was, "If you were my wife I'd take it."

Jeswein shrieked with laughter and an usher requested him to leave the house. He did so, but kept on laughing. After ten hours he was taken to the Emergency hospital.

THIEVES GET $50,000 LOOT

New York Jeweller Robbed in Broad Daylight.

New York, June 4.—Daring jewel robbers robbed the office of J. B. Theise, on the eleventh floor of 47-48 Maiden Lane, in the heart of the richest jewelry center in America, of a satchel of uncut diamonds, worth $50,000.

The gems had just been brought from a safe deposit vault, where they had been kept after business hours. Mr. Theise made the trip to the vaults to insure the safety of the jewels. When he reached his office he set the satchel on his desk and left the room for several minutes. When he returned the satchel was gone.

May Abolish Laureateship.

London, June 4.—The late Alfred Austin may have the honor of being England's last poet laureate. It was said that King George considers the post of poet laureate as obsolete as that of court jester, and that he will name no successor to Austin. The honor of poet laureate therefore will lapse and be one of the traditions of the British court.

GARY DENIES PRICE FIXING

Says Dinners Were to Prevent Demoralization.

New York, June 4.—Judge Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, was questioned about pools at the continuation of the hearings in the government suit to dissolve the corporation.

He said his attention was first called to the American Steel and Wire company's participation in the "Jackson pool" by a man who had come to him in 1908 and demanded a job "because he knew the wire company was in the pool."

"I found that it was true," he said, "and immediately ordered that the wire company withdraw."
Price-fixing, as charged by the government, was not the object of the "Gary dinners," he testified.
"The purpose of those dinners," he continued, "was to bring manufacturers together to establish a friendly feeling in order to prevent demoralization and establish stability of business. It was my object to prevent—not by agreement, but by exhortation—wide and sudden fluctuations of prices which would be injurious to the steel manufacturers. It was proposed that each manufacturer let the other know what he was doing, what prices he was charging, what wages he paid and what methods he employed."

This "co-operative plan" subsequently failed to work, the witness continued, and in 1909 the corporation was "forced to abandon the plan of giving information to other manufacturers."

"It became evident," he said, "that there was a disposition to publish at one price and sell at another without notifying us."

JEALOUS BABY KILLS INFANT

Blow of 20-Month-Old Boy Caused Death of Two-Day-Old Girl.

Newark, N. J., June 4.—An unusual case of alleged premeditated violence is reported in this city.

The authorities decided that the death of the two-day-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pezzano was due to a fist blow on the head dealt by the infant's twenty-month-old brother, Angelo.

The boy had previously exhibited jealousy towards his new sister, and had scratched her face in the presence of witnesses. The baby died shortly after being alone with her brother from a hemorrhage at the base of the brain.

ROOTS AS HOG FEED.

An Abundance of Green Feed Cheapens Pork Production.

If you are not fortunate enough to own a patch of several acres fenced with good woven wire you may still plan to furnish your hogs an abundance of cut feed and roots during the season of short grain supply, writes a Kansas hog raiser in the American Agriculturist. At this time you have a number of pigs, if the sows were bred for spring farrow, and in no other way can you hasten their growth so cheaply and satisfactorily as by providing plenty of succulent feed during the first six months of their growth. Rape, green oats, rye, alfalfa and clover are among the first available for cutting and feeding green. Sorghum does not grow readily until settled warm weather; hence, although it is very valuable later on, it will not do to depend on early in the season.

One of my neighbors who always made good in the hog business kept his hogs in a dry lot. This plan, however, is not to be recommended if there is any way to prevent it, as it necessitates extra labor at a time when labor is at a premium in other lines of farm work. This man always planted an acre or two, depending on the number of hogs he kept, in sweet corn. This he began to feed, stalk and all, when the grain began to set. When this was all gone he usually had some early corn ripening. Early in the summer a small patch of oats furnished succulent feed until the oats crop was ready to harvest, and by that time sorghum was ready to fill in the gap between the oats and sweet corn.

The late spring of 1912, with its cold rains and clammy soil, was not conducive to even sprouting of corn and Kaffir; hence the sweet corn crop on my farm was cut short, and I did not have much sweet corn with which to supplement my pasture during the dry season. I had, however, a good sized patch of mangels intended for winter feeding, and I used these instead. It seems strange that farmers, as a rule, do not seem to realize the value of these roots as stock feed. For six or seven years I have raised them for hogs, poultry and cows, and each season finds me wishing I had planted more. The main objection to them is the amount of work required in raising the crop, but they are such heavy yielders a small plot produces a large amount of rich feed.

HOUSE FAVORS COMMISSION RULE

Passes Senate Bill Which Affects Third Class Cities.

GOES TO GOVERNOR SOON

The Measure Abolishes Present Form of Government and Vests It in Hands of a Mayor and Four Councilmen.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 4.—The Clark third class city commission government bill, which will affect twenty-five cities, was passed by the house after a battle of an hour, in which it was attacked as too radical and subversive of present-day government ideas.

The opponents of the bill, who came chiefly from Harrisburg, which has worked under the new law, and Williamsport, made a poor showing, getting only 14 votes, while 146 were cast for the bill.

The bill went to the senate for concurrence, and it is expected that it will soon reach the governor, who will sign it.

The bill abolishes the present form of government and vests it in the hands of a mayor and four commissioners, who are to be the members of council, the present salaried officers to serve out their terms. The first election will be held this fall.

More than an hour was occupied in debating the bill, which was attacked by Messrs. Wildman, Harrisburg, and Ulman, Williamsport, as having rippled features, being expensive and burden some in certain features, the Harrisburg member declaring that it wiped out checks and balances, and the Williamsport member that it centralized government by combining the executive and legislative.

Mr. Spangler, York, explained the bill at length, and speakers for the bill included Mr. Kitts, Erie, who said that 90 per cent of the twenty-five third class cities of the state favored the bill, and that it would do away with the present cumbersome councilmanic system, with its delays, and have men who would devote their time exclusively to the city government. Mr. Miller, Allentown, who declared that there was an almost universal demand in the small cities for the change, remarking that the small council bill had been abandoned and that in his home city councilmen and civil organizations had asked for a change.

After voting down an amendment to reduce the appropriation for the state's participation in the Panama Pacific exposition from $450,000 to $200,000, the house passed an amendment to cut it to $300,000. The bill was the subject of a debate for an hour and a half, and attacks upon the proposition to make a larger allowance were made on the ground that the money should be devoted to charities.

BIGAMIST HAS NO WIFE

But Pleads Guilty and Gets Not Less Than Year in Jail.

New York, June 4.—Despite the fact that he has no wife, Jonathan Webb was sentenced to serve not less than one nor more than two years in Sing Sing for bigamy.

Webb pleaded guilty to bigamy on May 26 last, but immediately after ward announced, to the surprise of the court, that while he was accused of having two wives, in reality he had none.

"You see, your honor," Webb explained to Judge Swann, "when my first wife heard that I had married another woman she procured a divorce naming my second wife as co-respondent. Then my second wife learned of my first marriage and she had her marriage to me annulled."

JAPAN NOT YET OUR ALLY

Bryan Announces Peace Overtures Remain Not Fully Accepted.

Washington, June 4.—Secretary of State Bryan, after a conference with President Wilson, announced that Japan has not fully accepted the United States' universal peace overtures, as reported.

The Japanese government, the secretary of state said, has expressed itself as being interested in the general peace movement, but it has not yet indicated that it will ally itself with the United States in an attempt to secure the total abolition of war.

BRYAN'S EDITOR TO PANAMA

R. L. Metcalf, of Lincoln, to Be Appointed Governor of Canal Zone.

Washington, June 4.—Richard L. Metcalf, of Lincoln, Neb., editor of the Commoner, is to be appointed as governor of the Panama canal zone.

Metcalf succeeded Bryan as editor of the Omaha World-Herald, and when the latter started the Commoner he made Mr. Metcalf its editor. The salary at Panama is $14,000. Mr. Metcalf succeeds W. W. Thatcher, of Kentucky.

Carnival Performer Shot.

Erie, Pa., June 4.—Edward Liddy, of Boston, Mass., an attaché of a carnival company playing for the Erie Order of Moose, was shot by J. Warner, of Middleport, O., following an argument. Physicians assert that Liddy will die, the bullet having entered his head at the back of the right ear. Warner is under arrest.

Silo experience points to the fact that it is worth while having one of these food preservers if one's dairy consists of six or more cows.

While colts and horses get along first rate without vegetables such as apples or carrots, it is nevertheless true that they relish them greatly.

The person who contemplates buying an automobile should be well enough fixed financially so that he will not need to get his "gas" and lubricating oil on tick.

DE MUMM WEDS AFTER SHOOTING

Man Shot by Mrs. Barnes, Marries Kansas Girl.

London, June 4.—Walter De Mumm, the well known French sporting man, and Miss Florence Scoville, daughter of C. C. Scoville, of Seneca, Kansas, were married in the fashionable church of St. George's, in Hanover Square.

The wedding was celebrated with a full choir. One hundred guests were present.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Treadwell, and was given away by Mr. Treadwell. The bridegroom, whose family name is Mumm, Von Schwartzstein, was supported by his brother as best man.

The greatest interest was taken in the wedding owing to the dramatic incident last December in Paris, when in the course of a struggle with Mrs. Marie Van Rensimer Barnes, an American woman, De Mumm sustained two rather serious bullet wounds.

Mrs. Barnes afterward disappeared and De Mumm did not prosecute her. The attack on him was said to have been brought about by his announcement that he had come to bid her farewell.

DRINKS GASOLINE AND LIVES

Woman Who Tried Suicide Surprised She Didn't Die.

Pottsville, Pa., June 4.—Despondent because of sickness, Mrs. Fannie Maylum, of this place, attempted to commit suicide.

In a medicine closet she selected from among a number of vials one which she supposed contained a deadly poison. She emptied the bottle at a draught and then became very ill.

A physician was summoned and he found that she had taken gasoline. She was greatly surprised that she did not die. She was removed to the Pottsville hospital, where she was soon pronounced out of danger.

Free to All Canal Bill Introduced.

Washington, June 4.—Representative Steenerson, of Minnesota, introduced a bill to allow the use of the Panama canal free of tolls to vessels of all countries and thus prevent a monopoly of the coastwise trade.

England Has Cheese-Eating Record.

London, June 4.—The British nation consumed 210,000,000 pounds of cheese last year, making John Bull the champion cheese eater of the world.

Planning for a Great Apple Year

The fruit belt of New Jersey is alive with plans for developing and conserving what promises to be the biggest apple crop the State has ever had. With peaches and pears killed by frosts which the apples were tardy enough to avoid, the apple crop must be depended upon to do double duty. All the best methods of culture, sanitation, and marketing are now receiving their full share of attention.

The loss of horses by anthrax—especially the spread of the disease—is being prevented by proper sanitary methods, as described by the noted veterinarian, Dr. Thos. B. Rogers.

Old Time Housekeepers Knew the Cleansing Power of Lye

Don't you remember how they never could clean house without lye soap? They used to get the lye from wood ashes and then boil it with grease in a big pot.

You can get lye already prepared, strong, pure—an enemy to dirt and germs—made by the famous Babbitt firm that has been manufacturing cleansing products for nearly 80 years.

All grocers sell Babbitt's Pure Lye or Potash in the big, convenient can, at the small price—10c.

The can is big, the value bigger; the price alone is small.

SAVE BABBITT TRADEMARKS
Every Babbitt product carries a trademarked wrapper—which is good for valuable premiums—articles for the home or for personal wear. Send for the new Babbitt premium catalogue.

tractors, reported that they intended to start work at once on the first block of York street. They were authorized to remove the private concrete crossing at the Gettysburg Supply House if it did not conform to grade. The contractors agreed to remove all hitching posts on that block and to replace them with iron posts to be located on the curb. This, it is said, will answer the same purpose, look far better, and save the roadway.

The alley south of Springs avenue was finally ordered.

PREVENTION AND CURE OF MILK FEVER

If a cow is in good physical condition and flesh it is well not to feed very much if any grain, but give a liberal amount of succulent feed, such as silage and alfalfa and all the good hay, preferably of the legume class, that she will consume without waste. If there are no succulent feeds we believe it well to feed about one pound of oilmeal daily together with some other feed like bran or ground oats. We suggest the oilmeal because of its tendency to keep the bowels of the animal in good condition, but the succulent feed will do that if it is obtainable. Says Hoard's Dairyman.

The time has come when we need pay but little attention to the feeding of the cow so far as milk fever is concerned. We believe in feeding her in such a manner that it will put her in proper shape for calving. If milk fever follows the simple cure, the air treatment, may be applied. Every good dairyman should provide himself with the necessary instruments for inducing the udder with air. These instruments are easily procured, but a bicycle pump, milking tube and a short piece of rubber hose will serve the purpose.

King Beda, the pure bred Guernsey bull which heads the Guernsey herd of the Delaware Agricultural college, has attracted a great deal of attention. He is a half brother of one of the most noted bulls of the breed in the United States. As his portrait shows, he is an excellent individual. This bull has but two daughters in milk, and these have been officially tested for a year, beginning at two and a half years old. They have averaged 11,000 pounds of milk and over 630 pounds of butter each.

Great care should be taken to have the tube that is inserted into the teat thoroughly sterilized. Boiling is one of the best ways. Care should be taken not to touch it with the fingers or have it come in contact with anything before inserting. Furthermore, the teat itself and the end should be thoroughly washed with a disinfectant, using one part of corrosive sublimate to a thousand parts of water, which is a very effective antiseptic. Great care should be used in handling the corrosive sublimate because it is a deadly poison. An 8 to 10 per cent solution of carbolic acid is also a good antiseptic. If the operator is careful in thoroughly sterilizing the instruments and the end of the teat before inserting the instrument, there is no danger of infecting the udder, and furthermore the air treatment is practically an absolute cure for milk fever.

AN ABORTIVE ATTEMPT

By ESTHER VANDEVEER

"I don't know what to do with Jaqueline," said Mrs. Markham to her friend Mrs. Keane. "She is at a marriageable age and should be married. We are living up to our income, and if anything should happen to her father she would have to go to work. That would end her chances for marrying in the set to which she belongs. It would take her from the young men whom she has been accustomed to meet socially, and work soon spoils a girl's looks. She has turned down three men during the past year. All the mothers of sons are afraid of her. As soon as she has fooled one another idiot steps into his place."

"My Bert is much the same in reference to girls," replied Mrs. Keane. "It doesn't matter so much about a man's delaying marriage, but I should like to see Bert married. He needs a settler and marriage alone will make a man stop prancing and bring him down to a steady gait. Suppose we shut the two up where they can't get away from each other and not let any one else come near either of them till we get them married."

"The very thing."

"We go to our country place next month. Come and make us a visit, bringing Jack with you."

"Thanks very much. I shall be delighted."

On the 1st of June Mrs. Keane removed to her country place, taking her son with her. She was obliged to bribe him to come. As to his staying, she depended on Jaqueline Markham to keep him. She told him that she was to have Mrs. and Miss Markham for guests and wished him to help her entertain them, but at the slightest sign of his making love to the daughter she would make an excuse to terminate the visit. Mrs. Markham gave similar instructions to Jaqueline. Any effort or her part to make a conquest of Bert Keane would be a signal for their returning to their home.

Since neither of the young persons wished to pass the time shut up in the country at a season when the city was still attractive it would seem that they would at once do what they were forbidden to do. So they did, and their wily mothers knew they would, but the latter could if they liked be for bearing or blind or anything to avoid separating the two youngsters.

It was scarcely necessary to oppose any love-making between Mr. Keane and Miss Markham to bring about a flirtation. The mothers saw at once that if they could keep off other young men and women till the affair was played out there was hope for the success of their plan. No other guest was invited, neither man nor woman. The Keane place was not near other similar places, and the summer begonia from the city did not take place till the 1st of July.

Had the mothers held to their threat the visit would have ended within an hour from its commencement. The youngsters began a battle royal at the first moment of their meeting. Jaqueline was the aggressor. Bert, notwithstanding his mother's view of him, with women invariably stood on the defensive, but when attacked was an excellent combatant. The two were permitted to walk and drive out together and often availed themselves of the permission. They always came back together, so that their mothers felt satisfied that they had found no other outlet for playing their pranks and while at home were inseparable.

Nevertheless ten days had scarcely elapsed before Mrs. Keane on entering a room where the two were supposed to be "spooning" was surprised to see Jaqueline at one end of it engrossed in a novel, while Bert was at the other reading a newspaper. This was not encouraging. A few days later Jack disappeared. She had left a note for her mother stating that she had gone home and her going was a matter of necessity. During the day it was reported that a young farmer in the neighborhood had attempted suicide. Still later a woman came to the Keanes with blood in her eye asking for the girl who had broken her son's heart.

Bert fled the same evening, and the next morning's mail brought a note from a country girl reproaching him for not having met her "at the trying place."

The next few days brought news of other incursions on the part both of Bert and Jaqueline. Then the two mothers made inquiries as to how those whom they had endeavored to keep out of harm's way by keeping them together and apart from others had found their opportunities, with the following result:

They had gone out together and returned together, but there was no evidence that they had remained together during their absence.

"Jack is incorrigible," said her mother gloomily. "It is impossible to do anything with her."

"I'm afraid Bert is no better," said her friend.

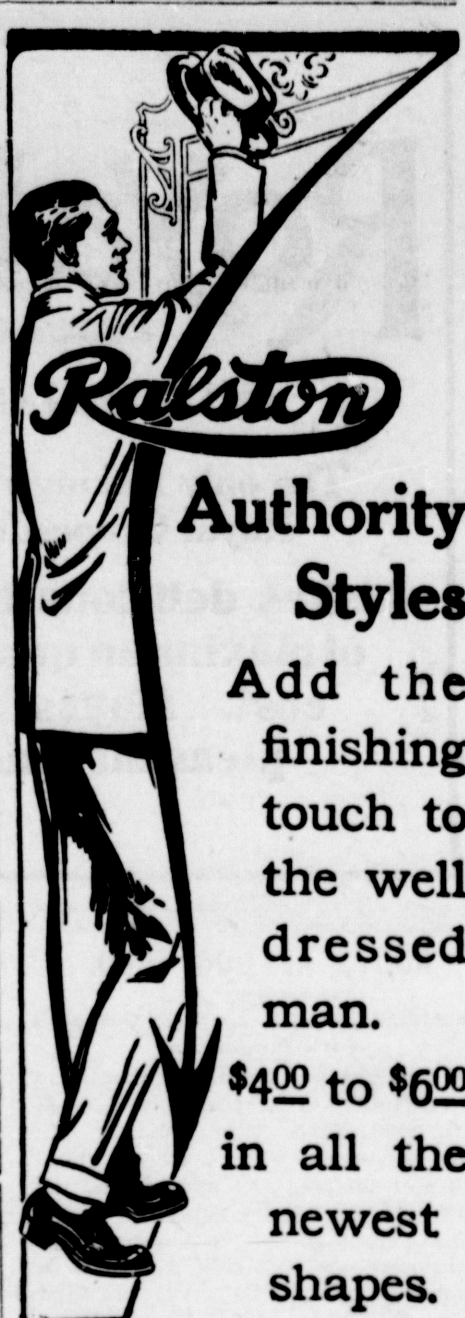

Strange to say, the young man who was at this time but twenty years old afterward studied for the ministry and married a matter of fact woman and without a spark of romance in her nature. One might as well have attempted to flirt with a telegraph pole. As for Jack, she married a man of business twenty years older than herself and occupied herself for the rest of her life bringing up a large family of children.

Doing Good.

Let me do good and never know To whom my life a blessing brings. 'E'en as a lighthouse freely flings O'er the dark waves a steady glow, Guiding the ships, which to and fro Flit by unseen with their white wings. Let me do good and never know To whom my life a blessing brings.

As thirsty travelers come and go Where some fresh mossy fountain springs It cools their lips and sweetly sings And glides away with heedless flow. Let me do good and never know To whom my life a blessing brings.

Poetry with a Sting in It.

On one occasion when Paul Hamilton Hayne was visiting Samuel Minturn Peck at the latter's home in Tuscaloosa the two poets strolled into the woods and paused to rest beneath the shadows of the pines.

"Here are your favorite pines, Hayne," said Peck. "Let's dream a few poems beneath them."

The languid summer day had its effect upon them, and they were soon snoring and dreaming away.

But suddenly both awoke and both started down the home road at top speed, shouting as they ran.

An army of yellow jackets had discovered them and, not being partial to poetry, had forcibly and feelingly resented its intrusion on their domain.

Later, at supper, Peck asked: "Did you make a poem, Hayne?"

"No," was the meek reply. "I made a poltinue!"

Their Message.

The evening callers were chatting with their hosts when there came a patter of little feet along the hall.

"Hush," whispered the hostess, raising her hand. "The children are coming with their good night message. It always gives me a feeling of reverence to hear them. They are so much nearer to heaven than we, and they

THE MESSAGE CAME IN A SHRILL WHISPER, speak from the fullness of their little hearts never so freely as when the dark has come. Listen!"

There was a moment's pause, and then the message came in a shrill whisper. "Mamma," it ran, "Willie found a cockroach in the bathtub."—Ladies' Home Journal.

He Loved Not the Massage.

Mrs. Ponsonby, visiting Paris, is receiving her friends at a "little evening," and, thinking to have a pleasant change after talk, suggests to a guest. "And now, M. Dubois, shall we have a rubber?" "Ah, madame," said M. Du Bois, with perfect politeness but pitilessly, "a thousand thanks, mais je n'aime pas le massage!"

While it is not well for the novice to go into the bee business on a large scale at first, there is little question that good money might be made by many folks who do not now keep any bees. Profits in cash returns on money invested of from 40 to 100 per cent are not unusual. More than this, the presence of the bees is of great value where fruit of any kind is raised because of their assistance in effecting cross pollination.
